

A Word from the Librarian

August 2010

Well, Score with Books is over but we want you to continue to visit the library often. The first thing you need to do is bring back everything you have checked out. Next, come look at our new display shelves in the children's section. I want to thank Joel Brock for the addition. I think they look great. We hope that we can help each of you in some way during the next few months. If you are teaching any age group, I know that the library has something that will enhance your class. We have so much to offer; please come in and take advantage of the blessings God has given us here at Shoal Creek.

August is here and school has started. So, it's time to think about Christmas Shoeboxes. Yes, that's right, Christmas shoeboxes! When you are buying school supplies, buy extra items for our shoebox project. Buy multi-item packages and remember NO liquids. In addition to the school supplies, we can use socks, t-shirts, shoes (crocs or tennis shoes), caps, and gloves. Watch for clearance sales. If everybody in the church picks up one of these types of items, we will be able to make some wonderful boxes again this year.

Last year we made 185 boxes. It would be great to make 200 this year.

Score with Books results:

35 completed the requirements

Clayton Russell completed the most for his age group (0-7 years) with 24 items.

Mallory McLaughlin completed the most for her age group (8-12 years) with 20 items.

Deborah Armstrong completed the most for Adults with 38 items.

Congratulations to everyone!

In Service to Christ,
Marty Woodall
